About ITRTV - CIF is seeking an outstanding incubation stage General Counsel (GC) candidate with a proven track record to provide legal guidance and assistance to management for one of its portfolio companies, "ITRTV". The company is entering the incubation stage with a research and development platform for wearable technologies, sensors and sensor enabled applications for health and wellness. During this stage, efforts will be focused on validating the customer market, developing marketing and sales channels, obtaining initial revenues, and building the supply chain.

About the Position - Successful GC's may have the opportunity to continue on as the acceleration stage GC, or join CIF or one of its other portfolio companies on a part-time or full-time basis. Incubation stage GC's can expect to work 5-10 hours per week at the CIF offices, remotely, and offsite at events and meetings. Under the direction of the company's CEO, the GC's key responsibilities include:

- Management of legal matters across diverse areas of responsibility
- Collaborate with the CEO and incubation team to provide legal guidance and counsel relative to patent, trademark, and copyright matters.
- Remaining current with federal, state, and local judicial decisions, laws, and other regulations affecting operations and provide appropriate guidance, particularly regarding Federal Acquisition Regulations and related acquisition regulations and policies.
- Dispute resolution and litigation efforts and strategy, including management of outside counsel as appropriate.
- Ensure operations remain within the limits prescribed by law and the business' contracts with commercial customers
- Ensure maximum protection of the legal rights of the business unit
- Collaborate with BOD to identify acceleration stage GC and support management transition

About you - We are seeking an experienced, entrepreneurial, and hands-on GC with strong interpersonal skills, experience launching new ventures, and the ability to manage the incubation stage of our proprietary commercialization process. You have a demonstrated interest in bringing innovation to health, health care, fitness, wellness, or wellbeing.

Qualifications

- JD/MBA preferred, but not required
- Legal background in relevant subject matters, which include health, healthcare, fitness, wellness, or well being preferred
- 5+ years of legal experience for startup or early-stage companies
- Ability to lead and work as part of a team and collaborate with BOD, strategic partners, incubation team members, clients, and prospects.
- Demonstrated ability to work independently and self-manage executive assignments
- Highly organized, with the initiative and ability to work with limited supervision; strong problem solving, negotiation and interpersonal skills
